Iris - Peonies

A Village Garden

1947

RALPH M. SCHROEDER

Warrensburg, Illinois

Foreword

This is truly A VILLAGE GARDEN. It is located in Warrensburg, Illinois, a village of about 500 inhabitants. Warrensburg is on Illinois Route 121, 9 miles northwest of Decatur.

Here, in the Corn Belt of Illinois, where most plants grow well, we have many of the finer varieties of perennials. In earliest spring, many wild flowers and flowering shrubs give color to the garden. Then Tulips, Narcissus and the beautifully colored Hybrid Peonies lend their charm until late May when the Iris and varieties of albiflora Peonies fill the garden. This spring bloom is generally at its peak about Decoration Day. Daylilies, Delphinium and annuals are our summer flowers. The Daylilies are normally at their best between the first and 15th of July. As the later blooming varieties of Daylilies are at their best the Chrysanthemums begin to bloom. These are a riot of color from early September through most of October.

When traveling our way, stop in. You are always welcome at A VILLAGE GARDEN.

NEW INTRODUCTIONS

OKTOHBI (Schroeder) Early. 42"-Parentage Shining Water x Gloriole. The name of this iris is an Indian word meaning fog. The color it is a pale blue self with gold markings at the haft. The color does not give the effect of a white iris as the blue color carries well. This is one of the earliest of the tall iris to bloom in my garden. Eight large full flowers of excellent form and substance extend the blooming season over 2 weeks$15.00

BETTER NEWS (Becherer) Being introduced by Becherer's Gardens Mid-season. 36"-Parentage Frosted Glass x Pink Seedling. Something new in white iris. The large well formed flowers have a flush of pink on both standards and falls. There is also an edging of gold on the petals. The style arms have a large feather of light yellow that lights up the center of the flower. Strong well branched stalk. An excellent variety$12.00
